

EDITORIALS

- 1 I. Advances in pharmacology and therapeutics
P. M. Hopkins and J. G. Hardman
- 2 II. Advances in patient comfort: awake, delirious, or restrained
M. Trivedi, M. Shelly and G. Park
- 5 III. Neurokinin-1 antagonists: a step change in prevention of postoperative nausea and vomiting?
D. J. Rowbotham

REVIEW ARTICLES

- 7 Neurokinin-1 receptor antagonists in the prevention of postoperative nausea and vomiting
P. Diemunsch, G. P. Joshi and J.-F. Brichant
- 14 Pharmacogenomic variability and anaesthesia
R. Searle and P. M. Hopkins
- 26 Pharmacokinetic models for propofol—defining and illuminating the devil in the detail
A. R. Absalom, V. Mani, T. De Smet and M. M. R. F. Struys
- 38 Simultaneous targeting of multiple opioid receptors: a strategy to improve side-effect profile
N. Dietis, R. Guerrini, G. Calo, S. Salvadori, D. J. Rowbotham and D. G. Lambert
- 50 What makes a molecule an anaesthetic? Studies on the mechanisms of anaesthesia using a physicochemical approach
J. W. Sear
- 61 Sodium channels and the synaptic mechanisms of inhaled anaesthetics
H. C. Hemmings Jr
- 70 Immunomodulation in the critically ill
N. R. Webster and H. F. Galley
- 82 Pharmacological optimization of tissue perfusion
N. Mongardon, A. Dyson and M. Singer

- 89 Anaesthesia and myocardial ischaemia/reperfusion injury
J. Fräßdorf, S. De Hert and W. Schlack
- 99 Statins for all: the new premed?
Z. L. S. Brookes, C. C. McGown and C. S. Reilly
- 108 Current concepts in neuromuscular transmission
M. J. Fagerlund and L. I. Eriksson
- 115 Reversal of neuromuscular block
A. Srivastava and J. M. Hunter

CORRESPONDENCE

- 130 Major complications of central neuraxial block: the Third National Audit Project: some comments and questions
- 133 Bupivacaine chondrotoxicity
- 134 Bispectral index sensor as a possible cause of postoperative visual loss after frontal craniotomy
- 134 Video laryngoscopy and external laryngeal manipulation
- 135 Response entropy—state entropy difference and nociception: a matter of context
- 137 Diagnosis of vertebral canal haematoma by myelography and spiral computer tomography in a patient with an implantable cardioverter-defibrillator contraindicating magnetic resonance imaging
- 138 Incidental recognition of an aspirated tablet in an oesophagectomized patient
- 139 Familial Mediterranean fever abdominal pain during spinal anaesthesia

BOOK REVIEWS

- 140 A Practical Approach to Pediatric Anesthesia
- 140 Stewart's Textbook of Acid-Base
- 141 Clinical Pain Management—Practice and Procedures
- 142 Ultrasound in Anesthetic Practice
- 143 Clinical Anesthesia—Near Misses and Lessons Learned